At the January 27 meeting of the INC Zoning and Planning committee, the committee voted unanimously to recommend that the INC delegation vote in favor of the following position statement at the delegation meeting on February 10. Delegates are encouraged to review the statement and be prepared to vote on February 10.

IMPROVING PUBLIC PARTICIPATION IN DENVER CITY GOVERNMENT

For many years, the discussion, making, and implementation of public policy by the Denver city government has been characterized by strong and meaningful involvement by citizens of Denver, including, but certainly not limited to, members of Denver’s approximately 180 registered neighborhood organizations (RNOs).

Denver’s system of registering RNOs and notifying them of important issues affecting neighborhoods (such as re-zoning applications, zoning variance requests, liquor, and cabaret license applications and many other issues) was adopted as an ordinance by the City Council in 1979. The legislative intent statement is just as true today as it was then:

“It is the intent of the Council to increase access to various agencies and departments of the city for neighborhood organizations; to improve the flow of information between these groups and agencies of the city; and to enable such organizations to present their positions before certain decisions affecting their neighborhoods are made by agencies and departments of the city.”

Denver’s RNOs and Inter-Neighborhood Cooperation (INC) have been active participants and partners in many major policy initiatives affecting Denver neighborhoods including:

- Making neighborhoods safer by reducing the number of one-way streets.
- Making Denver more attractive by having strong codes to regulate billboards and to require landscaping for new parking lots.
- Making Denver safer by establishing a public nuisance abatement program.
- Making Denver safer by increasing the number of police officers.
- Preserving Denver’s historic and architectural heritage through protecting Denver landmarks and landmark districts.
- Improving Denver’s infrastructure by being actively involved in formulating and passing the 1989 and 1998 city bond issues.
- Improving Denver’s park system by being actively involved in preparing the Game Plan for the Parks and Recreation Department and the Civic Center Master Plan.
- Planning for the future of the city by being actively involved in developing the 1989 Comprehensive Plan, the 2000 Comprehensive Plan, Blueprint Denver (2002) and many neighborhood plans.
- Attempting to improve the quality of life in Denver neighborhoods by developing positions on hundreds of re-zoning cases, zoning variance hearings and liquor and cabaret license hearings.
- Working with the Department of Human Services to develop the Plan to End Homelessness.
- Improving Denver’s zoning system by working on numerous language amendments and currently participating in the Zoning Code Update.

Chair Dave Webster called the meeting to order at 6:44 p.m. In attendance were Executive Committee (EC) members Karen Cuthbertson, Loretta Galla, Al Habercorn, Harriet Hogue, Charles Howard, Bill Johnston, Monique Lovato, and Anthony Thomas. Also in attendance were Standing/Special Committee Chairs Billie Bramhall, Cathee Fisher, Michael Henry, and Steve Nissen. The December Minutes were approved. The Treasurer’s report was not available.

Committee Reports:

- Audit: Al and Bill reported on the audit of INC financial accounts and development of a final 2006 budget by the Housekeeping Work Group. The Group finds that the monthly INC Treasurer’s Report is clear, concise, and accurate and meets generally accepted accounting principles. A final 2006 budget has been drafted. The Group’s draft audit report recommends (1) development of a monthly Budget Balance Report showing income and expenditures by line item for year-to-date, budget, and budget balance, (2) charging the Work Group with development of the 2007 INC Budget, (3) charging the work group with development of written financial guidelines and procedures, and (4) approving the Treasurer’s preparation of the annual IRS 990 form at no cost or minimal cost if assistance is required. A motion to approve the final 2006 budget and charge the Work Group with development of a draft 2007 INC budget for approval at the February 112 EC meeting was carried.

- Dollar Dictionary Drive: The proposed 2007 budget will be included with the overall INC budget in February. The cost of books is sometimes unknown until mid-year so expenses are estimated. Dave stated that the signature card for the Dollar Dictionary bank account must be updated. A motion to contribute a minimum of $250 from the INC account as a challenge grant at the President’s Dinner was carried. Monique suggested applying for an Ecel Energy grant responding to a question about the status of the Civic Center redesign, Tiffany noted that 557 surveys and many letters were received, including one from INC, with the overwhelming opinion opposed to the Libeskind proposal. The P&R Advisory Board is reviewing these and will be providing a recommendation to P&R Manager, Kim Bailey. Tiffany emphasized that the Libeskind proposal was only a concept.

Amber Callender, the Mayor’s Neighborhood Liaison, spoke about the next Mayor’s Neighborhood Conference on March 24th, from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. The location is to be determined but the Conference focus will be about organizing on a smaller scale with more block-by-block and one-on-one. There will be break-out sessions on safety issues, “green” issues, and more. There will be publicity to let everyone know the particulars and the public is welcome. Amber invited anyone who would Baker Historic Neighborhood Assn. – Neighbors helped neighbors who were shut in during the recent storm. There is concern about people not clearing their sidewalks after a storm. People complained about the streets taking a long time to clean but did NOT shovel the 30 feet of sidewalk in front of their own homes or businesses!

Cook Park Neighborhood Assn. – The annual elections for our Board of Directors are in January.

Cory-Merril Neighborhood Assn. – CMNA submitted a letter to Councilwoman Marcia Johnson, Chair of the Public Works Committee, requesting two changes to the proposed rules and regulations the Committee is considering. To wit: 1) Delete the “fee in lieu” concept and 2) For every residential building permit issued involving improvements of $100,000 or more, a sidewalk be installed that is ADA-compliant and otherwise consistent with the general character of the sidewalks in the affected neighborhood before a Certificate of Occupancy (CO) is issued.

Denver Solid Waste Management – Requests that residents please place trash and recycling containers a little farther out toward the street or alley and away from vehicles and that the containers not be placed behind snow banks. Your best efforts to ensure that the containers are not near ice would be appreciated. As always, please report graffiti immediately using the exact address or location.

Greater Mar Lee Community Org. – District 4 Police are moving Broken Windows Policing to GML and we are very excited about it. Abandoned homes are an increasing problem for us.

Hampden South Neighborhood Assn. – The light rail at I-25 and Hampden is operating with great success. The snow removal was adequate by CDOT. There is no news from the Police Department regarding the Police Communication Tower. Neighbors are requesting an update from the Chief. The road conditions at the entrance to the Denver Water Hill Crest Facility at Happy Canyon Road are such that the road retains a lot of water that is now ice. Denver and Arapahoe Counties have ignored this condition for years. The Neighborhood needs a solution. The steep

The deadline for requesting low-cost or free street-trees through The Park People’s Denver Digs Trees program has been extended to March 9th. Tree request forms are available on The Park People’s website at www.theparkpeople.org. Forms can also be requested by calling 303-722-6262, or by sending an email to info@theparkpeople.org.

All of the available tree varieties have been selected for their adaptability to Denver’s climate. Trees will be distributed to Denver residents at six convenient sites on Saturday, April 21st – EARTH DAY – for planting along the public right-of-way. A yard-tree sale will be held in conjunction with tree distribution day for those wishing to plant trees on private property. The free and low-cost street tree program is only for Denver residents but the tree sale will be open to the public.

Volunteer opportunities exist for anyone interested in getting involved. Simply call The Park People’s office at 303-722-6262, or email them at info@theparkpeople.org, to learn about volunteer opportunities.

The Denver Digs Trees program is made possible through the generous support of Denver Housing and Neighborhood Development Services, the Xcel Energy Foundation, Esurance, The Home Depot Foundation, Alliance for Community Trees, the Colorado Tree Coalition, and Plant It 2020.

The Denver Digs Trees program is a joint effort between The Park People, a private non-profit organization, and the Denver Parks and Recreation Forestry Department.
Teacher Awards

If you know a Denver Public School teacher who creates connections between his or her school and the community, nominate that individual for the 2007 MetLife Foundation Ambassadors in Education Award. The winner will receive $5,000.

The award honors middle- and high-school educators who build partnerships and improve communications between the school and its stakeholders, including students, staff, families, local government, community groups, and businesses. Members of all of these groups are encouraged to nominate a teacher who is improving their school by working with the larger community.

"Teachers are key to establishing a culture of caring and community involvement in their schools," said Sibyl Jacobson, MetLife Foundation President and CEO. "Their leadership in reaching out to their students' neighborhoods sets an important example for all citizens including students, parents, and school staff."

The Ambassadors in Education Award recognizes educators who are outstanding citizens and encourages others to model their best practices. Denver Public Schools has had four Ambassadors in Education since the award came to the city in 2003: Cheri Wright of Career Education Center, Steve Finesilver of George Washington High School, Nicole Veltz, formerly of Cole Middle School, and in 2006, Michael Gaither of Martin Luther King, Jr., Early College.

March 14 is the deadline for nominations. For more information about the award, visit www.ncl.org/metlife/index.html.

Health Insurance

After discovering that nearly one quarter of Colorado's estimated uninsured are eligible for government health insurance but aren't enrolled, the Foundation for Health Coverage Education expanded its 1-800 Uninsured Help Line to offer eligible Coloradans access to information about available public and private coverage.

"Research shows that many Coloradans have access to programs, but they're either unaware of the programs or need help signing up," said Philip Lebherz, founder of FHCE. "This service provides live counselors to help simplify the eligibility and enrollment process in order to help more people obtain the coverage they need."

A close look at the 687,000 Coloradans reported to be without health insurance reveals the truly uninsured number is only 180,000. The rest of this identified population is composed of those eligible for public insurance programs (161,000) but not signed up, those temporarily uninsured because of transitions in employment (125,000), and those earning $50,000 or more annually (221,000) who prefer to pay as they go or think insurance is too costly. The Help Line (800-234-1317) provides live one-on-one assistance and is staffed 24 hours a day, seven days a week with friendly information specialists and interpreters who speak multiple languages and offer basic screening for both public and private health insurance.

The information specialists help callers identify their potential options and connect them to program representatives. The center can directly refer the consumer to the appropriate state sponsored program according to various medical conditions and guide the caller to obtain the appropriate health coverage.

strong interest in maintaining and improving Denver’s process of public participation in city issues, particularly those affecting neighborhoods. In particular, INC encourages the Mayor and City Council and all city departments and agencies to establish and enforce high standards in all city agencies and departments for welcoming and encouraging citizen awareness and participation. Currently, some agencies appear to have minimal interest in citizen involvement while others are very neighborhood and citizen friendly.

City officials should recognize that, for the most part, citizens who want to take part in discussion of public issues are unpaid volunteers, not represented by lobbyists or lawyers. However, they contribute great value to the public discussion. Grass-roots neighborhood representatives can contribute valuable perspective and knowledge to policy discussions that “professionals,” “experts,” and city officials and staff often do not have. An example is the recently appointed Foreclosure Task Force that does not have any neighborhood representatives even though neighborhoods with high foreclosure rates suffer serious harm and could offer important insights and recommendations.

Citizen involvement a) usually improves the content of new policies or programs; b) serves as a communication link between citizens and the city regarding the issues in question and; c) builds community support for the new policies or programs. Citizen participation must be meaningful rather than window-dressing. Public officials must be willing to listen to the grass-roots public rather than just going through the motions.

INC recommends the following to the Mayor, City Council, and city department heads and requests that the city adopt a citywide policy incorporating these recommendations:

1. Department heads should be held accountable for a) involving the public in important policy issues and b) responding promptly to communications from the public.
2. Members of RNOs should be included on city boards, commissions, task forces and working groups regarding all matters that affect Denver neighborhoods.
3. Notification of vacancies on such boards, commissions, and task forces should be sent to citizens and RNOs.
4. Administration of the RNO registration process should be improved by making an updated and accurate list of RNOs available to all city agencies and training agency staff to access and use the registration list and to comply with notification requirements.
5. Agency staff should communicate regarding neighborhood issues with the most up-to-date list of neighborhood contact persons. Some agencies send notices to out-of-date contact persons and do not send to current contact persons.

6. Adequate time for notice to RNOs of meetings, hearings, and etcetera must be given. Less than 30 days is not adequate because most RNOs do not meet more than once a month and neighborhood newsletters are not published more than once a month.
7. Agencies should be able to communicate to neighborhood groups both by e-mail (which most neighborhood groups prefer) and by regular mail for those who do not have e-mail capability.
8. Elected officials, agency heads, planning staff, community police officers, and neighborhood inspectors should visit RNO and other public meetings periodically not only to announce and explain city programs but also to listen to neighborhood concerns and issues.
9. Elected officials, agency heads, and planning staff should involve the public in developing major new initiatives and plans well in advance of adoption.
10. The Community Planning and Development Department should develop a systematic and meaningful method to encourage and implement citizen involvement in neighborhood planning and transit-oriented development planning.
11. The Public Works Department should develop a systematic and meaningful method to encourage and implement citizen involvement in transportation planning for both small and citywide projects.
12. The Parks and Recreation Department should develop a systematic and meaningful method to encourage and implement citizen involvement in planning for parks and recreation centers.
13. Government officials should minimize the use of acronyms in verbal and written communications. Acronyms minimize citizen understanding.
14. Elected officials, agency heads, and planning staff should promptly respond to letters or e-mails from RNOs and other members of the public regarding significant issues and should not ignore such communications.
15. Agencies should schedule community meetings at times and locations convenient to citizens because most citizens are not able to take off from work during workdays.
16. Parking for citizens who attend meetings should be conveniently available.
17. Public meeting locations should be accessible to the disabled.
18. Community meetings should be discouraged between late November and early January in order not to interfere with citizens’ obligations during the holiday season.
19. Public hearings and meetings should be held in locations with good acoustics and with adequate seating.
20. Citizens who participate in public meetings should have access to agendas, meeting notes, documents, and progress reports and other important information re-
INC is proud of its charitable project aimed at helping with elementary education in our fine city. The Dollar Dictionary Drive is all geared up for the 12th annual drive. Yes, we need to shoot for a goal of more than 2,007 dictionaries. We will be raising funds to purchase 8,500 dictionaries and 850 thesauri for the third-graders in 100 Denver Public Schools.

We gratefully acknowledge the wonderful support of our member neighborhood organizations in this annual effort. The year 2006 shows member support to be 50-percent greater than the previous year. Grants and donations were received from hundreds of individuals and businesses. The number of individual donations continues to rise year after year.

This project receives great endorsements from the classroom teachers, DPS Superintendent Bennet, and Mayor Hickenlooper who said; “This is a wonderful project and I support it enthusiastically.” In 1997, this project resulted in INC receiving the first place award for “Neighborhood of the Year” by Neighborhoods USA (NUSA).

As you think about your budgeting and any pocket finances this coming year, we hope you will think about how you can help with the education situation in our communities. All of the funds raised are put into this project. We have no paid staff and administrative costs are well below 2-percent. The new brochure will be available at the INC February 10 meeting. For further information, please contact one of the persons listed on the last page of this newsletter.

New City Website

In an effort to improve customer access to information on the Web, the City launched a new Web site today, January 19, 2007 with a completely fresh look and a brand new easy to use navigation system that makes finding information easier than ever. The new site features special resident, business, and visitor sections; new simple language navigation that directs customers to topics of interest; and a new content management system for easy and efficient updating of agency content by City staff. Other enhancements include a new search engine and real-time news feeds for multiple electronic devices to keep users informed of current government issues and community initiatives.

“With the help of a leading Internet consultant and months of work by City staff, we are making the City's web site more streamlined and user-friendly to better serve Denver’s residents and businesses,” said Mayor John Hickenlooper. “The City and County of Denver’s web site receives close to one million site-visits each month and has thousands of pages of content. Our goal is for everyone using the new denvergov.org to quickly and easily locate the information they need.”

In preparing for redevelopment of the site, Technology Services analyzed Web trends and statistics and relied on assistance from over 200 Denvergov liaisons to ensure critical information appeared at the forefront of the newly developed Web site. In addition, the City retained Web site usability experts at Forrester Research to evaluate the site and to advise the City on areas that would deliver the greatest customer value and improved user experience. Forrester's comprehensive site evaluation measured the overall value, navigation, presentation, and trust offered by the new site. Close attention to accessibility needs of people with disabilities was also a focus of the redevelopment effort.

Technology services will continue to depend on customer feedback as well as encourage comments, suggestions, and ideas from City staff about future improvements to the site. Technology Services recommends that all staff suggestions about future improvements to the site be submitted to the agency Web site liaisons.

FHCE is a nonprofit 501(c)3 private organization based in San Jose, Calif. The FHCE was founded in response to the increasing number of uninsured who are eligible for programs but not enrolled. Its mission is to simplify public and private health insurance eligibility information in order to assist more people in accessing health coverage. For more information call 800-234-1317 or visit www.coverageforall.org.
like to help to contact her at 720-865-9051. There was a comment that this is timely as the snow removal for disabled and elderly is something that neighborhood groups can and should take on. There was also a comment that neighborhood response involves more than snow removal and this Conference can help with that dialogue.

Sarah McCarthy, speaking as the new Executive Director of the Neighborhood Resource Center (started 14 years ago by Doug Linkhart, Janey Hanley, et al.), spoke about the NRC. The NRC helps facilitate the kind of block-by-block connections that were being discussed. NRC serves as administrator for the City for small grants in focus neighborhoods ($2000 for RNOs and $2500 for schools) for neighbor-to-neighbor projects. The City also has money earmarked for replacing sidewalks in focus neighborhoods. NRC has a “Good Neighboring” program that uses Xcel Energy mini-grants for specific block activities. NRC also has “Party Packs” for block parties. Sarah is looking to tap into Homeland Security funding to help sponsor more of these types of neighbor-to-neighbor initiatives. Call 303-477-0023.

Councilwoman Rosemary Rodriguez spoke about the special ballot issue. The Councilwoman relayed that the Mayor, City Council, and the Denver City Auditor believe that the City should move to an elected Clerk and Recorder. Council decided to let the voters decide whether to change the charter. The Election Commission (EC) staff assured Council that they can distribute, collect, and tally the mail-in ballots and Sequoia assured the Administration that they can provide accurate and effective results to the City. Councilwoman Carol Boigon spoke about the start of this effort in 2005 with Common Cause. They found that the 3-member EC were disagreeing with each other and resisting the management changes necessary to improve the technology to accommodate the new election formats. The EC also refused to accept help with the system architecture from the City’s Information Technology experts. The Councilwoman feels that there needs to be a single person (a “general”) to oversee the elections. If approved, the position will be a Career Service position with all those qualifications. The Elected Clerk will be able to hire a Deputy Clerk and Recorder and a Director of Elections.

Jan Tyler, a former Election Commissioner, spoke in opposition to this change. Jan noted that the EC personnel were not involved in the formulation of the proposed amendment and that an elected Clerk and Recorder will not solve the problem. The new person would have the same responsibility as the EC only now the new person would be a politician instead of being independent and diverse. Jan claimed that there have been serious problems in counties that have an Elected Clerk, e.g., Douglas County where election-day backups kept some voters in line until after 1:00 a.m., and Pitkin County where 1,200 phantom votes existed. Jan recommended voting “no” on the amendment saying electors could elect a competent or incompetent Clerk and Recorder just as they now can with Election Commissioners. For more information, visit www.nocharterchange.org.

Questions included why the EC hardware servers were not sufficient and why the EC refused City help. Jan responded that the City budget would not allow for the additional hardware but that the observation about insufficient IT expertise was valid. Al Habercorn, an Election Judge who is also a database designer, noted that the problems were technical in nature so any solution – whether EC or elected Clerk and Recorder – is about expertise and competency. Nancy Ulrich noted that the League of Women Voters voted at their January 9th meeting to support the move to a Clerk and Recorder. The issue of the Election Commissioners being part-time came up. Ms. Tyler noted that Council positions were part-time until recently and the folks don’t take a part-time position if they are not committed. Councilwoman Carol Boigon related that her experience with Sandy Adams, et al., was that there were times they couldn’t respond because they didn’t have the time. Sarah McCarthy, now speaking as a member of the League of Women Voters, mentioned that the mail-in ballot requires 63-cent postage and must be back by January 30th. If the voters approve the charter change, the election will be on the May ballot.

Landri Taylor of Forest City (master developer of Stapleton) spoke about the redevelopment of Stapleton since 2001. Senior housing, livability, and sustainability are foremost goals yet the United Airlines Training Center is still active as well. Stapleton’s borders are 56th Avenue on the north, Montview Boulevard on the south, Peoria Street on the east, and Quebec Street on the west. There currently are 2,600 housing units with 10,000 more coming over 10 years. A cooperative effort is underway to help retailers new to the area market themselves to the rest of the city. Dave thanked Landri for his good Chairmanship of the P&R subcommittee of the Infrastructure Task Force. Landri noted that his subcommittee is almost ready to publish their findings and recommendations back to the Infrastructure Task Force. The larger publicity to the public will be after the May election.

Monique Lovato, INC Education Committee member, updated the delegates on the Denver Public School (DPS) funding and school closings. There are no scheduled closings in the 2007/2008 school year. A+ Denver is a group that is putting together a list of schools for potential closing. Monique stressed that every INC member should get involved at their local school level to get something better than just closing schools. Monique is encouraged that the current process regarding Manual High School in her neighborhood includes looking at new school formats and that Montessori schools are coming back. Bill Johnston, another Committee member, spoke about his experience in Northwest Denver. Twelve middle-schools feed North High School. Most schools’ enrollment is declining and test scores are low. DPS lost 1,000 students over a 5-year period. Forty-two percent of residents do not go to their local schools. Bill said that the closing of Manual served as a “wake up” call so parents, teachers, business, and community leaders met with DPS Superintendent Michael Bennet and demanded immediate and dramatic change at North High. Bennet initiated a community process (to the tune of two meetings a week over four months) to look at all schools in Northwest Denver. Meetings in open public schools were held at all feeder-schools and high schools. A summary of community expectations (including high-quality instruction, intentional school culture, and effective academic support and services) was presented to several hundred community members last week. Bennet said that DPS had “missed the boat” with regards to Manual High School and noted that the summary showed a large gap between what the public wanted in their schools and what DPS was providing.

The new plan for Northwest Denver schools includes:

- Creating a Valdez Elementary School/North High School campus for early childhood through 12th grade with a Montessori pre-kindergarten and dual language immersion pre-kindergarten through fifth-grade.
- Implementing an “EXCELerator” program at North High School.
- Formalizing the “International Baccalaureate Middle Years Programme” at Lake Middle School.
- Beacon programs at several schools.
- Phasing out attendance barriers.

DPS is still considering closing Horace Mann Middle School. Bill noted that this is a great example of what can be accomplished when residents get involved. Bill Johnston applauded DPS (including Theresa Peña and Michael Bennet) for their responsiveness and strongly stressed that INC Delegates take this back to their respective organizations and press their members to get involved. The summary presentation is available on the DPS website www.dpsk12.org. There was a question about Cole Middle School as the Knowledge Is Power Program is pulling their charter from Cole because they could not find a principal. The district seems willing to step up and help but they do not have all the answers right now.

Dave passed around a sign-up sheet for hosting INC meetings and for helping with the Presidents Dinner (which is now scheduled for late April or early May).

The Zoning and Planning Committee (ZAP) is meeting in two weeks. ZAP is dedicated to keeping in touch with the Zoning Code redesign. It finally looks like progress is being made and ZAP will be obtaining a draft when it’s available.

There were no other committee reports.

and Dave suggested applying for a Kiwanis Club grant. Loretta suggested trying the Channel 4 “Pay it Forward” program. Cathee read a “Thank You” letter from Mary French, Director of The Dictionary Project, expressing gratitude to INC for their leadership in helping provide every third-grader in Denver with a dictionary.

- Education: Billie announced that she is retiring from Golden Triangle Board in February. Margery Hicks will replace Billie on the Education Committee and Ann Lindsey will replace Billie on the ZAP Committee. Monique and Billie attended the A+ Denver meeting regarding DPS funding and school closings. They will present their findings for the February newsletter.

- INC Presidents Dinner: Bill Mitchell and Gabie Romano have finalized the menu. The Johnson and Wales’ facility is limited to a maximum of 250 persons. The date will be set for a time when INC can have a good speaker and program and award presentation. Harriet will pick up the invitations when they are ready, label, and mail them.

- Membership: No report. A motion to send an invoice to all Member Organizations to renew membership carried with two opposed. Dave will provide the cover letter.

- Newsletter: No report.

- Public Relations: Monique got a press release into Life on Capitol Hill regarding re-registering RNOs on denvergov.org. Monique will send out a press releases about the INC vote on the Civic Center remodel and about the Presidents Dinner.

- Public Safety: Loretta reported that DPD is preparing the language for changing the Nuisance Abatement ordinance. Committee members are going to meet with Council members next week. Loretta will write up something for the February INC newsletter to have the Delegates vote on it.

- Transportation: No report.

- Zoning and Planning: Michael passed out a draft of suggestions for how to improve the public participation process consistently across departments. He asked for input from the EC. He will have the ZAP Committee vote to adopt a final Position Statement for submission to the full Delegation for approval. Mike would like to invite candidates for the May City election to respond regarding how they would address these complaints.

Loretta Gallia announced her resignation as President of the Greater Mar Lee Community Organization effective December 16, 2006. The EC agreed that she could finish her term on the EC.

The meeting adjourned at 8:42 pm.
elevation of the sidewalk at the south end of the Rosemont Park Bridge could cause a serious accident. The City has been silent for years. The Neighborhood needs our City representatives to act.

Historic Montclair Community Assn. – Celebrates the 100th anniversary as a neighborhood organization this year! Special events will take place in May. Stay tuned.

Lowry Community Master Assn. – The Lowry Redevelopment Authority (LRA), who has total control of all of our sites, is sun-setting out at the end of 2007, three years early, saving some $8 million dollars. This popular living area will be overseen by the Lowry Committee Master Association (LCMA). Building and life are great in Lowry.

South City Park Neighborhood Assn. – The Mercy Hospital site redevelopment is at the point of human reality. There are as many new residents at this point as we have members in our association! Most are located in “Retreat at the Park” with some at “Wonderland Homes.” And the “Twin Towers” are under construction. We are growth challenged.

Stapleton United Neighbors – A recent big concern has been about schools meeting the needs of the Stapleton neighborhood while also integrating with the surrounding neighborhoods.

The FAX Partnership – The Denver Economic Development Office granted funding over a three-year period to help us with our efforts to revitalize East Colfax Avenue from Colorado Boulevard to Yosemite Street (the FAX). Blueprint Denver Committee recently recommended Main Street zoning for “The FAX.” We are currently going through the process of hiring an Executive Director. The FAX held a “Business after Hours” event on January 10th at the Elm Bar & Restaurant and hosted our neighbor organization, Colfax on the Hill. It was a wonderful evening of networking and cooperation.

University Park Community Council – Our Winter meeting is February 7th to work further on the Neighborhood Plan and discuss opportunities in support of University Park School that has received a “High” rating for excellence.

West Washington Park Neighborhood Association – Three new liquor license applications in the last two months have kept us busy.
