01:05:44 D - Bryan Wilson: Congress Park for ALL: As a former educator in Colorado, I believe it is a Colorado thing as well.

The funding then comes from the State of Colorado.

01:10:55 Bryan Wilson: D - Congress Park for ALL: ? Are the impacted schools getting any assistance from the Governor's Office or the Mayor's Office? Especially give the fact that they're coming after Count day.

01:14:15 Amanda Bouche: 😊 It's all good 👍

01:14:39 LaMone Noles, D-EDRC: ? what countries are these families coming from and how is DPS navigating students with diverse languages

01:14:55 Joanna Rosa-Saenz: Work with nonprofit org, Clothes to Kids of Denver for new socks and underwear!

01:19:12 D-Bruce Baskette (HH/WP): Is DPS also getting Chinese students?

01:23:03 Kristin Arkin-Leydig: Is DPS working with mountain communities who have historically had high mid-year enrollments by new arrivals? Eagle County School District comes to mind

Denver Public Schools has a lot of "new to the country" students enrolling in their schools with many needs that we can all support.

Many of these organizations are set up specifically to help these students, and are playing a role at the shelters and camps, helping with food, shelter and jobs. If you can help in anyway, please reach out to these organizations.
